Oriental Pink™

Rhaphiolepis x indica 'Rapopink'

The new Rhaphiolepis Oriental Pink™ is a bushy, low-growing, evergreen shrub, flowering in abundance during spring. Flowers are mid-pink, borne in dense sprays. Leaves are leathery & dark, glossy green with a hint of red. Ideal for sun or shade, Oriental Pink™ has good vigour, SPOT FREE LEAVES, attractive pink flowers and tidy plant shape. If you like Oriental Pearl®, you will LOVE Oriental Pink™! Tolerant of heat & frost but may require protection in extreme situations. Drought tolerant once established.

habit: tidy and low growing height: 1m

colour: pink flowers and dark green leaves

use: coastal gardens, plantings around salt water pools, low hedging and mass planting. Perfect where low maintenance, no-fuss plants are required.

Naturally tidy habit. Unpruned, potted plant showing masses of flowers.

Flowers open in dense, pink sprays, ageing to a softer colour.

Used here as compact, low-maintenance hedging above a retaining wall (seaside garden).
